There are about two police officers from Lakh in Mumbai. With the security of this huge city, most of them do not necessarily have the "cleanest" of Vardis. When four police inspectors are burned alive in a series of ruthless murders, the whole police force is shaken by terror. The media are looking for answers. The public is undecided about these murders. These crimes reflect Vir as a person a. Hot, calculating, and unconscious. He's not afraid to kill or die. It was clear he had a plan. A reason. A drive: behind these deaths and he was far from dead. Fearing the next attack, the Commissioner invites their best bet to capture Vir. Chief Inspector Shivansh is what he looks like a real cop. Strong, brave, patriotic and above all, "Clean." And of course he's the best at what he does. What follows is a succession of events that will test your Probity to the max. It's against Vir, who's a vigilante and will stop at nothing to complete his mission. This comparison of epic proportions will take us through the corrupt underground of Financial Capital. Vir and Shivansh are against the same enemy, but they are divided by a line to thin. The law. Shivansh is the "good guy" protector of the law, while Vir wants to take matters into his own hands, ignoring the law. These meticulous planned killings were just revenge killings? Or was there order in this chaos? There's a lot at stake. Along with the lives of many police officers, the public's confidence in the police's ability to keep them safe is also at stake. Will Vir be able to finish his twisted message? Or will Shivansh's integrity and ethics become his greatest strength and Vir's greatest weakness? Police corruption against corruption is more and more frequent. What is the profile of the Spanish language plot for Satyameva Jayate (2018)?
